It's the 21ft killer croc!

Brave Filipinos
snare world's biggest snapper!

➔ YES, THAT'S it. That's the world's largest crocodile ever captured. It's 6.4 metres long and it was taken alive by the brave inhabitants of Agusan village in the Philippines.

The locals have known about it for 20 years, but only went a-hunting when a fisherman disappeared, well, fishily. The townsfolk decided to capture the croc alive, and after setting steel traps, it took over 100 of them to wrestle the beast to the shore. And, as it's still alive, they plan to set up an "eco-tourism park" and make old snappy here the main attraction.

CAPTURED ALIVE!

The new bait yielded impressive early results

Croc facts!

By Ian
Stephens, curator of herpetology (amphibian studies) at London Zoo:

"This croc's at least 50 years old, and they can live to 100. They'll eat anything they can kill and fit in their mouth! They're ridiculously quick as well, and have a bite force of 2,500lb of pressure per square inch!"

Big Brother Babe topless!

➔ BB'S BACK!
That's right, the show that ended for ever last year, er, hasn't. Last Friday, 14 fresh-faced contestants entered the Big Brother house, but there can be only one winner, so we're backing 24-year-old Manchester lass Louise Cliffe on account of her being dead fit and that.

For ten weeks, the contestants (all under 30) will prance, preen, bitch and sulk as they bid to outdo each other for your vote. And Louise has a pair of aces up her top! So, fire up the Jacuzzi, sit back and enjoy the show!

● Big Brother, Channel 5, every night at 9pm

"How do you make this thing go faster?"

BB babe pub ammo!

Reasons we love Louise – apart from the obvious!

AGE 24
BORN Manchester
HEIGHT 5ft 9

- Louise has starred in two films: Annihilation Earth and Wrong Turn 3: Left For Dead
- She's been dubbed "The Manchester Kelly Brook" – and we can see why!
- Louise recorded her first single, Let's Face It, in 2008. In the video, she played five different characters.
- Louise writes a column for FamouslyFit.com, in which, unsurprisingly, she talks about being fit and famous.

NUTS DISCOVERY!

Louise's career began in 2006 after she won a Bedroom Babe shoot in little old Nuts magazine!

Douse my house!

You want water?
You've got water!

➔ WHEN IT comes to action pics, this one has it all! You've got a raging California brush fire nearing a residential area, a helicopter dumping water on it, and a fat lady cheering the chopper on while her equally rotund husband tries to fight back the fire. Either that or he's grilling a sausage. Awesome! If we were unkind we'd suggest the portly pair jump in their pool, as the resultant tidal wave would surely extinguish the flames for miles around. But we're not unkind. We're lovely.

WINDS: PETE LARSEN; PHOTOS: FRANK BELLAMY/GETTY IMAGES

LA Fire Dept facts

- The LA County Fire Department uses eight full-time helicopters: three Sikorsky S-70 Firehawks, four Bell 412's and a Bell 206 JetRanger.
- The Sikorsky packs a 1,000 gallon water tank, while the Bell 412 (shown) features a 360 gallon, two-door tank.
- The section is on call to a 4,000 square mile area, serving over ten million residents.

The Avengers behind the scenes!

Nuts gets exclusive behind-the-scenes pics as superhero overload films in New York!

➔ MOST SUPERHERO movies stick with the formula of one hero, one villain and some lady eye-candy. But The Avengers, currently filming in New York, has six superchaps thanks to their recruitment into the Avengers team by main S.H.I.E.L.D. man Nick Fury (Samuel L. Jackson). This'll be the blockbuster of next summer, and as you can see, it already looks fun!

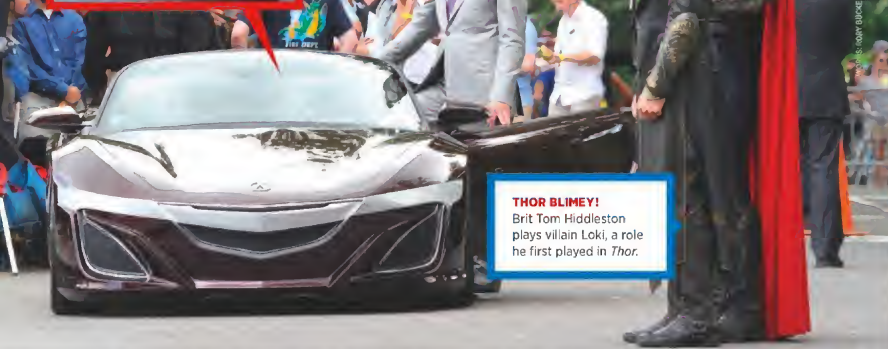

FROM COMIC TO COLOSSUS!

It'll cost around £100m. Not bad for a concept that began life as a comic in 1963.

"I thought I told you to hire me a green one, you idiot!"

Brit Tom Hiddleston plays villain Loki, a role he first played in Thor.

Impaled on garden shears!

It's humanity nil, DIY tool one!

➔ YOU'VE LOOKED. Looked away. Then looked again. Now read the story of Leroy Luetscher, 86, from Arizona, who found himself impaled face first on a pair of shears.

While tending his roses, Luetscher dropped the giant scissors business-end first into the ground. As he went to pick them up, he stumbled and landed eye first on the six-inch handle, which smashed through his eye and buried itself into his neck. "I pulled on them – it seemed real solid – so I just left it alone," said Luetscher.

The old boy put a T-shirt over the wound, called for an ambulance and plucky surgeons incredibly managed to save his eye.

Luetscher has since made a full recovery, aside from a bit of double vision. Which seems entirely reasonable.

A quick word with Tom Hardy!

The Brit actor on UFC, training for Warrior and having a weaker punch than his missus!

Hi Tom! Tell us about your new movie, Warrior.

It's a chilling and, I hope, compelling story of brothers who encounter each other in the cage – for $5million in purse money. My character, Tommy, needs to win to pay the bills for a colleague who died alongside him in Iraq. His brother Brendan [Joel Edgerton], a teacher, needs the cash to save his home and family.

Sounds heavy. How was the preparation for the role?

I had two months of intense training of at least 12 hours a day before I even got onto the set of the film, but although I'm in pretty good physical shape, my fiancée Charlotte has, pound for pound, a better punch than I do! I refuse to be drawn on why I've come to that conclusion or in what circumstances! Let's leave a rather large question mark hanging in the air!

Did you do your own stunts?

We did all our own fight scenes. And I mean all. You just get on with it and put in 100 per cent. It's not rocket science. To have stunt men doing the hard bit, the tough scenes, while Joel and I sat them out, would be entirely short-changing the audiences.

What were days on set like?

Before the cameras started rolling, I was up by seven every morning, doing lifts and weights, and looking at different fighting styles. I looked at a lot of videos, and I went to a lot of matches and met many fighters – the guys we tackle in Warrior are all experienced people, they do it all for real, and we had to come up to their standards. I was aware of it before I landed the role, but I wasn't educated about it, but when I got involved I became fascinated, and now I'm a huge fan. You see it all very differently when you've taken part, believe me!

Who do you think will make up Warrior's audience?

It'll be a word-of-mouth movie. It'll get an audience, and they will – I'm pretty sure – enthuse about it to others, and it'll build. Two brothers on opposing sides of a battle is one of the oldest stories there is. The difference here is that they're cage fighters and that, man, is vicious!

● Warrior is in cinemas from 21 September

The wind had changed on Jag's "special face"

0-62 IN 4.4 SECS!

One game for Braintree Town reserves and Derek thought he'd made it

"Car's great, chaps. Not sure about the spoiler!"

Amazing new Jag supercar!

Meet the C-X16, an E-type for 2012!

- Jaguar builds some of the world's most comfortable yet poo-tuggingly quick cars. They do phat saloons beautifully, and they know how to build a rapid big coupé. But what they lack is a smaller sports car – something to frighten ze Germans. Meet the C-X16.
- Watch your back, Porsche Cayman, BMW Z4 M and Merc SLK AMG – the new C-X16 two-seater is out for your blood. Jag calls it a concept, but Nuts has it on good authority that this is very much a near-finished production car.
- The C-X16 is almost the same length as the iconic E-type, with a wide, open-mouth grille and side-opening rear-window hatch like its grandpa.
- The C-X16's 4.4 second 0-62mph score matches the 550bhp V8 XK-RS, but does it with a 375bhp lightweight supercharged V6 engine and electric motor boost. With perfect 50:50 weight distribution and rear-wheel drive, it's born for B-road blats or lairy sliding.
- The C-X16 can drive purely on electricity up to 50mph, but needs the clout of the V6 to reach the limited max speed of 186mph. It'll shred its 21in rims from 50-75mph in just 2.1 seconds, helped by a paddle-shift gearbox.
- Inside, there's red leather and black Alcantara, with carbon-spined seats and air vents inspired by the Typhoon fighter jet. Lithium-ion batteries for the electric motor are behind the seats.

A red button on the steering wheel activates a 95bhp electric "boost" – acting in the same way as the F1 Kers "push to pass" system. Video game stuff!

Like all new Jags, they're made in Britain. This C-X16 concept is made of carbon fibre, but the production car will be all-aluminium, like its XKR bigger brother.

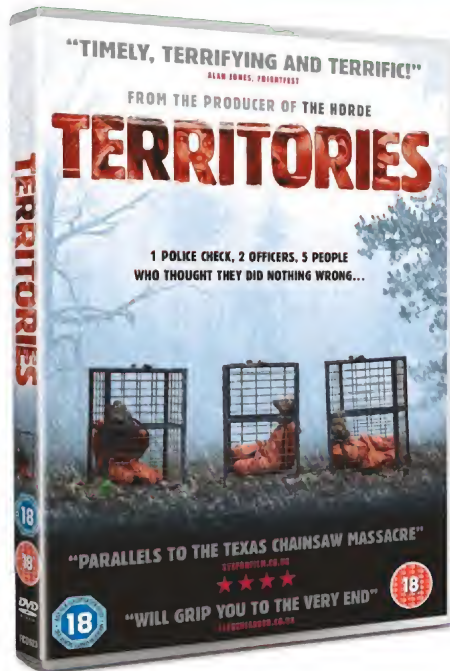

Prototypes have been spotted on the road and Jag says the car will go on sale next summer – initially as a drop-top roadster, without the hybrid system, for around £50,000.

Jim's an award-winning comic from Australia. He likes swearing and being angry

"Hooker tax takes the fun out of it!"

IN GERMANY, they've brought out parking meters for hookers, where the girl buys a slip for €6 that allows her to walk the streets legally. You've got to give it to the Germans, they really are efficient. It's right to tax anyone who works, but it kind of takes the fun out of it for the client, doesn't it? I mean, I'd keep checking the meter to see how much time I had left. And how does the whole disabled by thing work? And what if the hooker runs out of time - will she get her leg clamped? OK, so maybe I'm over thinking this a little...

"Grow your own vagina!"

SCIENTISTS CAN now grow body parts in labs. So there's

22 Nuts

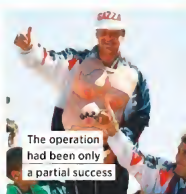

"Yeah, I've heard red hats are slimming"

I'VE READ that fatties cost the NHS £25million a year - and £12million of that goes on reinforcing ambulances! Sh*t like this really p'sses me off. These people are addicted to food, for f'rk's sake! They reckon smokers cost an extra £10,000 over their life but cigarettes have a tax of £5 a packet, don't they? So a pack a day for 50 years comes to more than 90 grand in tax. Well, they tax food too, right? If you get sick 'cos you've eaten too much, then I say you've already paid for your illness! It's these cancer and Aids patients who are the real freeloaders!

a time just around the corner where we won't have organ donors - we'll just be able to call up 1-800-KIDNEY and a new one will arrive at the door. Clearly, this will save lives, but I'm looking forward to the time when we can grow breasts and vaginas. Then I'll be able to attach them to my iPhone and never have to have another argument again.

The operation had been only a partial success

"Scottish duo keep it in the family!"

CHRIST! DID you see this? Richard Finlayson, 21, and his sister Kirsty, 18, were caught on CCTV having sex at Motherwell train station. Twice! Richard is apparently seen giving Kirsty £20 - not for the sex, she insisted, but because it was her birthday. Aww! How sweet. It just proves the pair were brought up right and taught to share. But seriously, what's the problem? They're consenting adults, and who among us can say we haven't sucked off our brother for a bit of cash? Am I right?

"We already know fast food's sh*t!"

SO THE government have told McDonald's to show the calorie count on their burgers. They just don't get it, do they? We know that eating McDonald's is sh*t, it's no use getting depressed about it. It started with cigarettes, then food. You watch, beer will be next. There'll be warnings on it like: "CAUTION: You may wake up with a terrible... looking person!" That's all for now, f'ckers!

Because she knows what she's doing and we don't!

DANNI ORSI.
100% REAL
LESBIAN!

You might recognise Danni from hit TV show Candy Bar Girls on Channel 5!

I always get really nervous on nights out when it comes to talking to hot girls I don't know. I'm guessing it's no different for girls who like girls. So, how do you go about it?

DEREK North Wales
Just introduce yourself and show that you're interested in what she's saying. Don't pretend to be what you're not – either you are fated to make the connection or you're not. At worst, she can just tell you to go away, nothing lost. Alternatively, go up to her and tell her that you want to jump her bones at the earliest available opportunity. PS, do you have medical insurance?

ILLUSTRATION: BILL MCCONKEY

Lady-loving action, please!

LETTER OF THE WEEK!

I can't stand the taste of my girlfriend's private parts! I've not done a lot of oral sex but I can't see myself getting used to it. Is there anything I can do to improve the taste?

ROGER North London

You don't know what you're missing, Roger. But, if you must, I'd suggest chewing three pickled onions and three spring onions plus a clove of garlic beforehand. Joke! Again, guys, it's all about the pineapple juice. Drinking plenty of that will make anything taste nice.

to know where to find the best examples. Can you recommend any good directors or styles?

LEWIS | Brighter

When it comes to watching porn, I'm just like every other ordinary Joe – I just type "porn" into Google and click on the first f*cked up thing that jumps out at me. This may surprise you but to be honest, I'm actually not much of a fan of lesbian porn. - I'd much rather see girls getting f*cked hard by giant d*cks. But then I'm weird like that!

I've always wondered, how do you lady-loving ladies have sex? What counts as full intercourse given that there's no actual penetration?

STEVE Head of Flight

Listen, Steve. When someone makes me come like a biatch, that's good enough intercourse for me. By the way, there's actually loads of penetration – fingers, dildos, tongues, spoons... And yes, before you ask, I'm not joking with that last one! Sex is sex. Just enjoy yourself and don't get bogged down in daft definitions.

- If you've got something to ask Danni, just email her at thelesbian@nutsmagazine.co.uk or write to her at the usual Nuts address on p72.

'My hand was hanging in two!'

Beastly boat engine's no fisherman's friend!

➔ IT WAS "A&E ahoy!" for County Down boatman Gary Dickson after an unplanned engine encounter led to this gruesome gash.

"I was carrying out some repair work on a conveyor belt on a fishing boat," the 30-year-old recalls. "While I was doing this, I must've knocked the lever with my knee because my hand got fully sucked in!"

With only an inexperienced apprentice on board, Gary tells Nuts he had the unenviable task of reversing the belt himself to fish his damaged arm out. "My hand was sort of hanging in two, and all that was holding it together was the skin. I was lucky it didn't cut straight to the bone!"

However, it was only after he got off the blood-covered boat that the full horror of the mishap became clear.

"The tendons were severed, and every bone in my hand was fractured! I've got months of intense physiotherapy ahead," Gary tells us.

At least he's got a good excuse for getting out of scrubbing the decks now.

"You should see the other hand!"

The wife goes crazy, saying, "The house is a mess, there's no food in, I haven't had my hair done in weeks and there are three kids screaming the place down. Why invite him round tonight?"

DEEP WITHIN a forest, a little tortoise begins to climb a tree. After hours of effort, he reaches the top, jumps into the air waving his front legs, and crashes down to the ground.

After recovering, he climbs the tree again, jumps, and falls to the ground again. The tortoise tries over and over, while two birds sit on a branch watching his sad efforts.

Eventually, the female bird turns to her mate. "Darling," she chirps, "I think it's time we told him he's adopted."

A load of bull

TWO DAUGHTERS – one blonde, one brunette – inherit their father's farm. In order to keep it going, they realise they need to buy a bull to breed from, so the brunette heads to the market to get one.

After buying a fine specimen, she heads to the telegram office to send a message to get her sister to pick her and the bull up in the family truck.

The telegram man says, "It's a pound per word, what message do you want to send?"

Looking in her pocket, the brunette realises she only has one pound. After thinking for a moment she says, "Just send the word, 'comfortable.'"

The telegram man looks confused. "How will she know to collect you and the bull with just that word?"

The brunette says, "It's OK. She's blonde. She'll just read it very slowly."

➔ THE RULES are simple. We fill our bucket full of ridiculous questions, then a celebrity picks them out at random and must answer whatever they get!

Would you rather have four arms and no legs or four legs but no arms?
I'd rather be a mutant frog than half a spider!

What's the most embarrassing record in your collection?
The Onion Song by Marvin Gaye. [Starts singing, terribly.] "The world is just a great big onion, and pain and fears are the spices that make you cry. And the only way to get rid of this great big onion, is to plant love seeds until it dies." It's also one of my all-time favourites. It's a great song!

Is there a God?
Yes, there is - you're speaking to him!

Which one of the Saturdays would you like to "get to know" first?
I'd start on a Friday night and try them all!

Pants or boxers?
Straight boxers, baby. I get my butler to sort out my boxers by doing the sniff test. He then irons the clean ones.

If you were six again, what would you spend your pocket money on?
I'd invest in gold, baby. Hindsight's a bitch.

If you saw yourself in a dress, would you fancy yourself?
Only if it had some cleavage and some butt-pads. Otherwise, I'm not my type of woman.

What song lyric best describes you?
Ima Boss by Meek Mill and Rick Ross. I'm my own boss and I'm also the boss' boss of my own.

Who's the most famous person on your mobile we could phone up right now?
Fearne Cotton. That'd be on the general BBC switchboard number.

What's worse: JLS or Marmite?
Well, what you've got to understand is one's packed with vitamin B and the other one has quite a malty taste. Work it out for yourself. I'm a big fan of JLS. I love them all. I don't know the difference between them. I love them all equally, baby!

What's the square root of 169?
That I don't know, but I know the square root of 69 is eight, or somethin'.

When did you last get a part of your flesh stuck in a zipper?
It happens every day, because I'm big like that and I really like to hang!

Who'd win in a race between you and a dog?
I am that dog! I'm the Big Dawg! I'd win, just so long as you didn't take it off the lead.

Who did you last have a sexy dream about?
It wasn't a dream. Sexy's back with me.

Do you have smelly feet?
No. Only smelly socks. It's only my socks that smell, not my feet.

Who would you save first from a house fire - your girlfriend or your mother?
I'd rush in and save my hard drive with all my music on it. Mum and the girl, you're on your own, kids! You've got legs. I need my music, baby!

What will you have written on your gravestone?
"Here lies the Big Dawg, Kingpin Of The Death Game - he's buried face down so you can still kiss his arse!"

WESTWOOD: JONATHAN WILSON

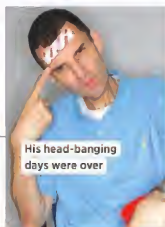

"Who nicked my chamois leather?"

His gunge tank forfeit was fairly tame

"If there was a fire, I'd save my hard drive with my music on it!"

"Can anyone else hear an echo around here?"

"A holiday for two in Bognor? No thanks!"

His head-banging days were over

"I wish I'd remembered my glasses"

"Mmm... it smells of elderberries"

LIAM NEESON!

There are reasons why the ZX Spectrum is no longer popular. Neeson from Darkman is one.

BRUCE WILLIS!

'I've battled pirates with my bare hands!'

Former SAS member "Big" Phil Campion has fought as a mercenary in some of the world's toughest, most savage warzones. Here, he tells Nuts what life as a hired gun's really like...

Hello Phil. Can you tell us what exactly it is that you do?

I work in what's known as "the circuit" – the place where people can go after they finish in the military. It used to be exclusively where ex-special forces would go and earn big money but, thanks to Iraq, there are a lot more people doing the job.

So, is "the circuit" made up of what we call mercenaries then?

Yeah, but we're more like contractors now. Proper mercenary work was about picking up arms for other countries and getting involved in military coups. Now, it's helping the coalition effort in Afghanistan and helping with the fight against piracy.

What's an average day in the job like for you?

It goes from personal protection to training people from other countries to fight. There's consultancy work, advisory stuff and lessons for students. But then, there's the odd job that raises its head...

Like what?

It could be a debt collection, like going in to get a fleet of vehicles back, usually involving big money. I looked at a job that involved getting some cars back from Libya. I get offered stuff like that all the time.

Do you ever turn work down?

I had a guy ask me to do a job for him involving looking for somebody in South Africa. I didn't take it because I couldn't see what'd happen if it went wrong. Also, he was offering too much. I know what the going rate is, and when it's off the mark you think, "What are you trying to get me into?"

Are you only interested in making money?

No, if something's unethical and against what my country is trying to achieve, I wouldn't do it. If I was asked to train somebody who was then going to turn his skills against the crown, I wouldn't do it.

So what's the closest you've been to death?

There was a time in Gaza when we came under fire. I rammed my interpreter against a wall to get a straight answer. He said, "They're coming for you, Mr Phil!" You get used to being attacked for being in an army, but when it was actually, "Mr Phil, they're coming for you," you think, "Oh, fking hell!"

What other situations have you found yourself in?

I've fought pitched battles with pirates where I was unarmed.

Mercenary work is very well paid, but highly dangerous

They're firing guns and rockets at you, and you have to use what you can lay your hands on! I've not managed to have a fking gun battle with them yet, but I'll have my day!

Have you lost many mates in this line of work?

I've lost friends over the years, yes. On the flip side, you can forge a career out of looking after celebrities, which isn't really life-threatening at all.

Have you ever had to assume a fake identity?

Yes. In Gaza, it would've been handy to have had some false ID on me! Your name gets bandied round places quite a lot, so there are a couple of times when I've carried around stuff that would identify me as somebody else.

Is there anywhere you wouldn't go, or can't go?

I wouldn't like to go back into Gaza. That's not to say I wouldn't, because I would if the job was right and the money was right. It'd have to be a fking epic job though!

Have you ever encountered a mercenary who's "gone bad"?

I had a lad I'd recruited for a mission in Afghanistan fire a shot at me after an argument a few years ago, after he got drunk. Luckily, he was so psed he missed. I sent him home the next day. ✕

WE'RE ALWAYS forgetting important stuff like anniversaries,

And that's because they've kindly put together some insanely hot snaps of themselves and packaged them up in handy calendar form for us. Just think – a whole 12 months of your Nuts babe of choice and you'll never forget an important date again!

So we thought it only fair that we give you a little taster of some of the stunning ladies who may be adorning a wall near you very soon. And, as if that weren't enough, we've got the gorgeous Imogen Thomas to kick everything off...

Hi Imogen! How much fun was your calendar shoot?

I loved it! What girl wouldn't? I love getting dressed up, then a bit underdressed and seeing all the sexy end results. It's almost like getting ready for a big night out having all the clothes laid out in front of you. I might have 20 pairs of shoes and 30 sets of underwear to choose from. It's every girl's dream!

Is shooting a calendar as sexy as it looks?

You do feel really sexy doing it. Once I start shooting it I can't stop! It's just me tearing underwear on and off all day. Just out of each shot is underwear everywhere. What's not to like about that?

Which shot is your favourite on your calendar?

I loved every one. I had so many outfits and sexy things to wear it was a shame there are only 12 months in a year!

Finally, tell us why 2012 will be even better than 2011.

Well it can't get any worse can it really? I've had a really sh*t year to be honest. I can't wait to see the back of 2011.

E4/HD • 10pm

If you prefer your Essex-style telly to speak in a posh accent while sipping champagne and nibbling canapés, you've come to the right place. The second series following the lives of various Kings Road types begins here. Personally, we'd rather hang out with the Essex girls, but that doesn't mean this doesn't have its share of hotties!

This Is Jinsy

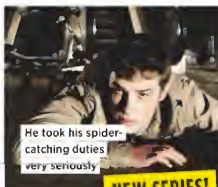

SKY ATLANTIC/HD • 10.30pm

Welcome to Jinsy, an island where marriages are decided by lottery and electric owls fly around photocopying people's faces. This is an inventive Mighty Boosh-esque sitcom, written by and starring Chris Brann and Justin Chubb, though it could be funnier. David Tennant's ace as outrageously camp Mr Slightlyman in this opener

The Fades

BBC3/HD • 9pm

This brand-new supernatural horror drama is about a young kid called Paul who can see the Fades – spirits of the dead who've not crossed over to the other side. Paul gets involved with saving all of mankind when one particularly creepy Fade figures out how to break the barrier between the living and the dead. Worth a watch.

Fresh Meat

CHANNEL 4/HD • 10pm

From the writing team behind Peep Show, and loosely based on their experiences, Fresh Meat follows some mismatched students who've all moved into their student digs to start Uni. Comic Jack Whitehall pops up in his first acting role playing a posh brack superbly, and Joe Thomas of The Inbetweeners is in there too. Great!

Ask Rhod Gilbert

BBC1/HD • 10.45pm

The Welsh comic leaves the valleys and heads back to the BBC for this excellent celebrity panel show. A hybrid of Mock The Week and Planet Earth (er, sort of). Rhod explains, "In the first series we got to the bottom of whether fish or birds are more important to the planet, and whether dogs can blow." Our kind of show!

CSI: Miami

CHANNEL 5/HD • 9pm

Horatio and Delko investigate when a pregnant woman's carjacked and beaten up, apparently for the hell of it. Soon, it all gets more complicated as well, with the woman's jealous stopson, a missing airbag and a link to an armed robbery all bamboozling the crime-busting bods as they try to make sense of the mystery.

The Bomb Squad

BBC1/HD • 10.35pm

If you think you've got pressure, spare a thought for those undertaking bomb disposal in Afghanistan and you might think differently. Here, one team's dropped into an area where an insurgent has laid an explosive, while another helps clear a village. Of the latter team, only four of the original seven remain. See what we mean?

True Blood

CHANNEL 4/HD • 11.10pm

Shape-shifter Sam gets to know his real family. A shame they're such utter scumbags then. There are werewolves galore tonight too, mostly keeping Vampire Bill captive at the request of King Russell. Also, we learn loads more about Eric the Viking's back-story, while Tara meets a super-dodgy vamp called Franklyn.

The X Factor USA

ITV2/HD • 8pm

We never thought we'd say this, but we prefer the Brit edition of The X Factor now Simon Cowell has gone to do the Yank version of the show. But if you're missing his box-shaped head and blindingly white teeth, watch this, the first audition white teeth from the US. Oddly, smarmy Steve Jones hosts, for which we've docked a star.

Young Soldiers

BBC3 • 9pm

The second edition of the docu following new Army recruits from training to front-line combat in Afghanistan begins with them learning distinctly cool-sounding stuff including shooting with live ammo. So far, so good. But, with deployment to Afghanistan looming, some begin to doubt their decision to sign up.

Show And Tell

E4 • 10.35pm

A nice new premise for a comedy show. Chris Addison introduces three new comics who bring in their very own item of importance. There, they hold up their item and do a stand-up skit about it, hopefully amusing us with their witterings about said prop. The small studio audience get the chance to get in on the action, too.

The life of a poker pro!

Scott's column this week: It's the Main Event in Las Vegas!

TEAM PKR Pro
Scott Shelley fills us in on the high life of a pro poker player...

Scott speaks:
"My Vegas adventure was easily the highlight of the poker year. We were there for the World Series of Poker Main Event where players stump up $10k (£6,250) to enter, all with the same dream, of making it to the final and playing for the $8million+ (£5m+) first prize!"
"The WSOP Main Event starts with more than 6,000 players and plays down to the final nine. That can take about ten days of playing. Once you have the final nine, they return in November to play down to one winner in front of the live TV cameras! Not only was this my first attempt at the world championships but this was also the first time I had played a $10k buy-in event.

"I was beyond excited. I was one of three Team PKR Pros playing. After three gruelling 12-hour days of poker, we all made it through to Day Four of the championships. There were now less than 1,000 players and by the end of the day the remaining players would be in the money and guaranteed at least a nice double up of their $10k stake!"

"My team-mate, Team PKR Pro Sascha Walter busted out just before making the money. Gutted! I made it but then it was my turn to run badly – I lost a massive pot. I couldn't recover and ended up busting out in 618th place for $21k (£13k). It doesn't sound great, but out of 6,000+ players, this was a good result.

"Russian Team PKR Pro Vladimir Geshkenbein – our team's resident madman – managed to outlast everyone until Day Six, and went out in 106th place, which is pretty damn incredible! He made over $50k (£30k), but as all poker players are in it to win it, busting out that close to the finals was awful!

"I'll be talking about the crazy life of a pro poker player every week over at Nuts.co.uk/poker. Be lucky, chaps!"

GREAT SCOTT!

Last year, Shelley went from Customer Services Rep to Pro Poker Player when he won £133k!

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Nicole

18 Edinburgh

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?
"In a tiny shower in a hotel in Magaluf. Obviously, it was wet and it lived up to my expectations!"

2 What's your naughtiest move?
"I like to tease. And I also like to dress up. You can't go wrong with that, really."

3 What really turns you on?
"Getting manhandled, and actually getting told I can't get what I want, because I know I can soon change that!"

4 What's your favourite position?
"Any position as long as there's complete control, whether that's coming from me or from them. None of this equal patter – go for it, one or the other!"

5 Is it better to give or receive?
"Definitely give, because then you're guaranteed to receive the best present!"

6 What's the one sexual thing you really want to try?
"As many hot girls as I can get! Unfortunately, where I live there seems to be a lack of them, or I'm simply not looking hard enough. So, if some nice gentleman would like to find me a couple, be my guest!"

7 Ever got it on with another girl?
"Some hot kisses paired with some lovely pants but it pains me to say that they never came off. I'm still working on that one."

8 What's your rude fancy dress of choice?
"Anything that's completely unexpected. I like to turn up with just a big jacket on and let it drop to the floor. It sounds rubbish but it has a very interesting effect. It always gets the ball rolling."

9 Have you ever made a sex tape?
"No. I'm actually waiting for a man to have the balls to make one with me!"

10 What's the rudest thing you've done?
"I was dressing up for a man in the aforementioned big jacket and he told me we had to stop at Asda first. So, I spent the next hour doing the food shop with nothing on but a little jacket around me. It was amazing!"

"I want as many hot girls as I can get!"

Man Utd vs Chelsea special!

Magic man Paul Merson on Sunday's title showdown!

➔ ANDRE VILLAS-BOAS takes Chelsea to visit the Premier League champions on Sunday in the hope of derailing Fergie's trailblazing young guns. To help see where the game will be won and lost, we've recruited Nuts legend Paul Merson to reveal how the Premier League big boys match up.

● Man United vs Chelsea, Sunday 18 September, 4pm, Sky Sports 1.

MERSE IN MOTION!

In a career that spanned over 20 years, Merson played 622 league games, scoring 126 goals.

Pulling his scary face wasn't really helping Merse on the teams!

MAN UNITED "For me, United have to go 4-5-1. They may have scored eight against Arsenal but they were very open. The Gunners scored twice and missed a penalty. Chelsea are a lot stronger and will expose the space between United's midfield and back-four."

CHELSEA "Andre Villas-Boas needs to approach this game like it's a Champions League match. Chelsea have been far from convincing so far this season, but I think they can get a result if they keep themselves compact and hit on the break."

WORDS: TIM HANRETT PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES, SHUTTERSTOCK, PA PHOTOS

Nuts SPORT

Merse on the defenders!

MAN UNITED "Phil Jones is a young player with bags of potential and Chris Smalling's rise from non-league football to England right-back has been phenomenal. However, without Ferdinand and Vidic, United are vulnerable at the back and Chelsea will expect to score."

CHELSEA "Chelsea's defence will be stronger than United's. They have the two best full-backs in the Prem (Jose Bosingwa and Ashley Cole) and are tough to break down. That said, Norwich and West Brom caused them lots of problems, so it could be a high-scoring game!"

"Hey! Ashley! What's the latest with you and Cheryl?"

"Not now, Chris, I'm trying to play!"

He always enjoyed a bit of opera

"Can someone please move this white box?"

KEY CLASH!

Merse on the midfielders!

MAN UNITED "Tom Cleverley and Anderson are in great form but they'll need extra support against the experience of Chelsea's midfield trio. Nani and Ashley Young have been key to United's great start, but they'll find it tough against Bosingwa and Cole."

CHELSEA "Frank Lampard has come in for some stick over recent weeks but he's got into my England and Chelsea teams every time. He scores goals and if United fall asleep just once, he'll punish them. Expect Juan Mata to play in the hole behind the striker and pull the strings."

"Wow, Nando's really perfected that flying kick"

The Karate Kid was his favourite film

Merse on the strikers!

MAN UNITED "Fergie will play Wayne Rooney up front in the lone striker position. Danny Welbeck will miss out with a hamstring injury. Rooney's so good, he could start at right-back and probably still do a job for his team!"

CHELSEA "Villas-Boas will go with Fernando Torres up top. With Mata playing behind him, it could be a new start for the ex-Red. Mata will play the role that Steven Gerrard filled when Torres was scoring for fun at Anfield."

MERSE'S PREDICTION: Man United 2-2 Chelsea "United are so open at the moment, I won't be surprised if Chelsea get a result. If the Blues can finish their chances, it could be a cracker!"

KAMMY!

He's the voice of the fans – and he's only in Nuts!

"Ha! He's going to fall for my hand-buzzer prank. Again!"

CARROLL

POOL PAIR!

King Kenny's right on Carroll!

Andy's lifestyle shouldn't concern Capello!

➔ I SEE Kenny Dalglish has been forced to defend Andy Carroll after Fabio Capello criticised the Liverpool striker's lifestyle. I have to say, I think it's all got a little out of hand.

Every player's different and you can't treat them like robots. Carroll's hardly in the same bracket as George Best or Paul Gascoigne when it comes to partying! And in terms of diet, Peter Beardsley used to eat burger and chips his entire career – he couldn't stand vegetables and it didn't do him any harm!

Obviously, the game's moved on since then and players are fitter than ever these days, but Carroll will know himself if he's not being professional enough.

If it starts to affect his game, then the manager should step in, but Carroll's still getting over a long-term injury and the season has only just begun. It'll take him some time to get his sharpness back and to start scoring again. Give him a break, Fabio!

Becks to QPR could happen!

IT WOULD be great to see David Beckham back in English football, and even better at somewhere like QPR!

Their new owner, Tony Fernandes, is keen to make an impression, and signing Becks would be brilliant for the club. Fernandes clearly has the cash to afford him – supposedly he's paying Jocelyn Barton mega dough! Most importantly, QPR need to stay in the Premier League and Becks would certainly help them achieve that. I'm sure he'd want one last go in English football and we all know he wants to make the Great Britain Olympic football squad. Being back in the English game could only help strengthen his cause.

One thing's for sure, it'd be interesting to see how Becks got on with Neil Warnock – that could get very interesting!

"Hey! Where did my weather map go?"

My six Champions League contenders!

This season's ones to watch in Europe!

➔ THE CHAMPIONS League's back this week, so I've picked out the six teams I think have the best chance of lifting the trophy come May. No prizes for guessing who my first choice is, though!

Half-price burgers at McDonald's? I'm there!"

MAN CITY

"With the money they've spent, you have to include Roberto Mancini's side. They've a squad of players who know the Champions League, and they're playing as a team."

"I'll never train this stupid poodle. Oh, hang on – it's David Luiz!"

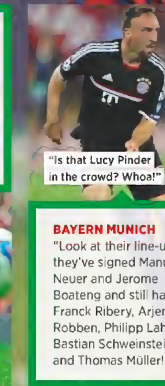

CHELSEA

"Andre Villas-Boas has been hired to win the Champions League and he has a group of players who are experienced in Europe. That's vital if you want to go all the way."

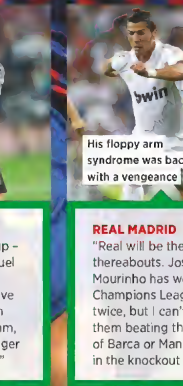

MAN UNITED

"The one thing about Sir Alex is he always improves his teams. His new signings have made great progress and look at home in the red shirt. They have all the tools to get to another final."

BAYERN MUNICH

"Look at their line-up – they've signed Manuel Neuer and Jerome Boateng and still have Franck Ribery, Arjen Robben, Philipp Lahm, Bastian Schweinsteiger and Thomas Müller!"

REAL MADRID

"Real will be there or thereabouts. Jose Mourinho has won the Champions League twice, but I can't see them beating the likes of Barca or Man United in the knockout phase."

Qatar Foundation

"Ref. I'm bored – can I have a ball to myself, please?"

His floppy arm syndrome was back with a vengeance

"Is that Lucy Pinder in the crowd? Whoa!"

Nuts ABOUT SPORT!

Funny goings-on in the wonderful world of sport!

WORDS: TIM BURNETT. PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES. ACTION IMAGES. NAR. REX. STEVIE

Boxing's supposed to hurt but this looks really painful. US boxer PAUL WILLIAMS is the unlucky recipient of Cuban Enslavely Lara's vicious left!

MIKEL ARTETA has a double reason to celebrate. He got a big move to Arsenal and he gets to take former Miss Spain LORENA BERNAL with him!

"Quote me on that!"

This week's biggest match debaters!

"With Wayne Rooney, you're always likely to get some gel!"
Especially now he's got some hair, Iain Dowie.

"After watching Traore at Old Trafford, I asked Arsenal to pay me to take him!"
QPR boss Neil Warnock drives a hard bargain.

"The striker is absolutely massive. He's 6ft whatever!"
Dean Windass doesn't do specifics.

"I'm not a tea boy!"
Shaun Wright-Phillips has to remain a tea boy.

"Piquionne's was a fantastic finish that hit the post!"
Not really a finish then, West Ham gaffer Sam Allardyce.

"Bryan Ruiz is a good-looking boy with long hair. He's elegant and a very nice mover!"
Jamie Redknapp has got a man-crush.

OO-ER SOUNDS A BIT RUDE CORNER!

"I've never gone down, myself!"
Soccer Saturday's Phil Thompson admits a bit too much.

"Alonso comes hard on the top of the hill!"
It's no wonder then that he looks so worn out, David Coulthard.

"In the Premier League if your partner leaves you space, you have to fill that partner!"
So that's what "man up" means, Charlie Nicholas?

EXCLUSIVE!

Wilkinson: 'We can win the World Cup!'

England rugby legend Jonny speaks to Nuts!

➔ Hi Jonny! How are England shaping up at this World Cup?

We're in a good place, especially after winning the Six Nations. To perform at this level, you need to have focus, determination and desire. These are qualities we have in abundance.

It's been quite a journey for you since the 2003 World Cup and that drop-kick... All the stuff off the pitch that comes with winning a World Cup was something that was hard to come to terms with, but I looked on it as a learning curve.

Then there were the injuries. Again, I had to be philosophical. I was at the top of my powers and then had to get my head around being injured. I genuinely saw it as another challenge.

THE GENIUS OF JONNY!

Wilkinson's the only man to bag points in two World Cup finals. He got 15 in 2003 and six in 2007.

How did it feel to no longer be a first-choice number 10?
I wasn't doing cartwheels but I tried to learn from it. Coming on late meant I had to find solutions to different problems.

Now it seems you're back in the starting 15. How is it?
I feel great! I've got the same enthusiasm as ever, but there isn't the same kind of anxiety I had a few years ago. I'm determined to enjoy every minute.

So, can England win the World Cup?
Yes! We're every right to be confident because of the ability we have, but also the professionalism. The goal's to get among the elite group of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

How vital's Martin Johnson to England's success?
Johnno's a leader of men, driven in whatever he does, but also knows what makes a human being tick. He's helped the squad grow both as players and people.

Thanks, Jonny! Finally, fancy kicking another drop goal to win this World Cup?
I don't care who scores if we win. Winning's everything, and always has been!
